Mr. Howard from the committee of ways and means, delivers the following report:

The committee of ways and means, to whom was referred the communication from the honourable Samuel Smith, senator in congress, relative to the claim of Maryland against the United States, for interest ou money borrowed to aid in the prosecution of the late war, beg leave

That on the 13th of April 1824, the president of the United States transmitted to the senate, a message, together with sundry documents, illustrative of the claim of the state of Virginia for interest on money borrowed by the state, for the purpose of aiding in the prosecution of the war, and which claim was not allowable, "according to the uniform decisions of the accounting officers of the government," in the exercise of their ordinary powers.

The attention of congress, being thus specially called to the subject. an act was passed to authorise the payment of interest due to the state of Virginia upon sums, which the general government, by repayment, had admitted to have been expended for its use, and the interest upon the principle this adopted in the case of Virginia, the state of Maryland is entitled to the receipt of a very considerable sum, and no doubt can be entertained, that the general government will be disposed to measure out equal justice to all the states. It appears from the report of the treasurer of the western shore, that the state of Maryland was obliged, from her peculiarly vulnerable position, to contract loans to the amount of more than four hundred thousand dollars, for the purpose of resisting the predatory incursions of the enemy, whose ships were almost continually in her extensive waters. Upon these loans interest was paid, and the general government, by the repayment of more than two hundred and eighty thousand dollars, have admitted that the expenditure was made "for the use and benefit of the United States," and that consequently our claim is wholly within the rule adopted with reference to Virginia.

It appears, by the documents before the committee, that the secretary of war called upon the third auditor of the treasury for an estimate of the amount that would be due to the several states, "were the principle of paying interest to be assumed by the United States." In answer to this call, the auditor submitted an estimate, which was prepared, as he states, "from a very cursory view of the accounts, and, in a great measure, upon supposed data, and consequently entitled to but little reli-ance." In this estimate the state of Maryland is placed second to Virginia in the amount of her claim, and there is therefore a peculiar propriety, now that Virginia has been paid, in Maryland being the next to advance her claim. The amount due to Maryland, according to the estimate above mentioned, is one hundred and one thousand three hundred and five dollars. According to the documents before the commit-tee, it appears that more than two hundred and eighty thousand dollars, the sum admitted by the United States to have been expended for their use, was borrowed in eighteen hundred and thirteen, and that the first repayment was made in eighteen hundred and eighteen. The largest repayment occurred in December eighteen hundred and hineteen, being one hundred thousand dollars, and in January eighteen hundred and twenty-one, a payment was made of ninety-four thousand seven hundred and ten dollars. From the time that elapsed between the contracting of the debt, and its discharge by the United States. it is evident, that the amount which the state is entitled to receive, if the same principles are applied to us, that were allopted in the case of Virginia, cannot be less than one hundred thousand dollars.

With regard to the mode in which this matter should be brought beforce the view of the general government, there may be a difference of opinion. On reference to the documents before the committee, it is found, that the senators from the state of Virginia, constituted the organ of communication, with reference to the claim of that state And. from the vigilance already manifested by the senator from this state. who has brought this subject to our notice, and who is at the head of the financial committee of the senate, it is thought advisable to pursue the same course, successfully adopted in the case of Virginia. The committee therefore submit the following resolutions:

Resolved by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the senators who represent this state in congress, be requested to bring before the general government, without delay, the claim of the state for interest upon loans contracted by her for the prosecution of the late war, in the mode that may be deemed most expedient. And that the representa-tives in congress from this state, be requested to assist in prosecuting said claim to a successful termination.

Resolved. That his excellency the governor be requested to correspond with said senators on the subject of the foregoing resolution, and cause the documents, necessary to sustain the state's claim for interest, to be forwarded to them, and to transmit to each of them, and to each of our representatives in congress, copies of the foregoing report and

Resolved. That the sum or sums which may be received from the government of the United States, for interest, upon the money advanged by the state of Maryland during the late war, for the use and beneat of the United States, shall constitute a fund for the establishment and support of common free schools, and that the treasurer be and he hereis authorized and directed, to invest the money aforesaid, as received, in the stock of the Farmers Bank of Maryland, by subscribing for as many of the shares in the stock of that institution, reserved to the state, as are equivalent thereto; and the dividends arising from which to be appropriated for the purposes aforementioned, as the legislature may hereafter determine.

Resolved. That the president, directors and company, of the Farmers Bank of Marvland, whenever the treasurer of the western shore shall subscribe as aforestid, on the part of the state, for any part of the shares of the stock of sald bank, be and they hereby are authorized, to purchase stock of the government of the United States; or of the Bank of the United States, equal thereto in amount, and thereine to sell and transfer at their discretion.

Which was twice read, and the resolutions therein contained assented to, and sent to the senate.
